FRAGMENTS OF THE EARLY HISTORY OF OHIO COUNTY.

By H. D. TAYLOR.

CHAPTER XXI.

The next two resident lawyers of the Hartford bar were Samuel Tevis and Moses Cummings. Tevis came from Shelby county, and only practiced at the Hartford bar a few years, and again returned to Shelbyville, and was clerk of that court for many years. While in Hartford his habits were rather dissipated, but he was looked upon as a young lawyer of promise, and got a fair portion of patronage. Moses Cummings came to Hartford at quite an early period. Few men of his period were his superiors in intellectual endowments, or real moral worth. But he had one vice, and one virtue in excess; both of which stood in his path and barred his way to honor and distinction. His vice was intemperance, his virtue in excess was the most consummate modesty and want of self-reliance. Charles Henderson, the clerk of our court for many years, was often heard to say that he never heard Moses Cummings say a foolish thing in court; and Philip Thompson, a competitor at the bar, used to say that he would as soon have Cummings to draw up the proceedings in a suit as John Marshall, then chief justice of the United States. Yet, with all these legal and intellectual qualifications, he would resort to almost any subterfuge rather than speak in public; and there is little doubt but his ineptitude was partly attributable to this cause. Litigants love to hear their virtues ventilated, and their misdeeds vilified, even at the expense of their pockets. Hence, most clients will pass by a man of profound legal knowledge, and employ a flashy, second-rate attorney, if he is a fluent speaker. This was Cummings' fate. Men would consult with him as to their legal rights, and then go to other lawyers to do their speaking. However, there are still more evidences left among the old records of our court of the charity, force and perspicuity of his intellect. Whether acting as a surveyor or commissioner of court, or attorney, every instrument of writing drawn by him is remarkable for its perspicuity, clearness and concise brevity. In society he was mild, gentle and retiring; never assuming the lead in conversation; never thrusting his views and opinions upon others, and always expressed his ideas in the fewest possible words.

A story is told of his attending a party at the house of old Harrison Taylor. Old Bunt Jane, as she was familiarly called, was remarkably social and talkative, and, observing the young lawyer's extreme modesty and retiring manner, tried several times to interest him and engage him in conversation, but meeting with such little success, she exclaimed: "Well, well, they say your name is Moses, and you are a young lawyer; have you got a brother Aaron to do your talking? I think you will have to have one before you make a great lawyer of yourself." She was a shrewd observer of human character, and her predictions proved too true; for with all his intellectual and moral worth he never reached fame or distinction, but remained poor, gaining only a meagre support by practicing law, surveying and sometimes teaching school, and it is to be regretted that he did not devote his whole time and attention to the latter calling, for few men excelled him in the art of conveying his ideas to the meanest capacity; and although he seldom resorted to the use of the rod, yet the continued smile playing upon his countenance, and jet black eyes, seemed to be foreboding disaster and punishment to the indolent and naughty, and appropriation and love to the timid and diligent.

We have endeavored to portray the man in his sober hours, but when particularly intoxicated he was quite different—talkative, witty, and sarcastic, bold and daring, but never aggressive or quarrelsome unless ill-treated; always polite and good natured in his most withering sarcasm, never uttering a word that would be out of place in the most polite society. In a word, his brilliant fancy, wit and sarcasm, while drinking, was far more enjoyed by his best friends than his retiring, unassuming modesty while sober, and his drinking was no doubt too often winked at, if not encouraged, by many who should have been discouraged by his example. He removed to Davies county, where he resided many years, and finally went to Texas, where he died.

A striking contrast to the foregoing person was Philip Thompson, the next

A Romance of Fort George Island.

Fort George Island—a winter resort at the mouth of the St. John's River, Florida, which is coming into fashion—is the subject of an enthusiastic writer in Scribner for September, who relates the following:
The young owner of the island, cultivating hundreds of acres and raising enormous crops of cotton and sugar, used to build schooners in a ship-yard of his own, and imported slaves directly from the African coast, selling to his neighbors such as he did not want. He was unmarried. Perhaps no one of the daughters of the neighboring planters could be persuaded to share the lonely life which could hardly have appeared attractive in any woman's eyes; perhaps he preferred a life of freedom and independence. However that may have been, he was in the habit of going occasionally to Africa himself, and of buying his slaves from the native chiefs, who disposed in this way of their prisoners of war.

During one of these visits, while engaged in bargaining, he was struck with the grace and beauty of the chief's young daughter, a child of ten years old. He proposed to buy her, but she was a favorite child and her father could not part with her. Persuasions were for a time unavailing, but at length the savage father, unable to resist the glitter of the white man's gold, agreed to part with his child upon condition that she should be treated with consideration and brought up as he became a king's daughter. The planter promised, and, strange to say, he kept his word. She was kindly cared for and well educated, and in the course of time became the planter's lawful wife.

She had, according to tradition, with the exception of a dark skin, none of the usual negro characteristics. Her hands and feet were regular, her hair smooth, her presence dignified and commanding. Her husband seems never to have regretted his unusual course, and her influence over her captive countrymen was unbounded. In addition to her position and superior intelligence was the consideration of her native rank, which to them was a source of unquestioned right.

The establishment was kept up in almost princely style. The sons were sent to England to be educated; for the daughters French and English governesses were procured, and established in separate houses near the mansion; while natives of various kinds were constantly employed making up a large community aside from the hundreds of slaves upon the island. And over all this, in her husband's long and frequent absence, reigned our dusky princess, as absolute in her insular domain as her savage father in his native wilds. She had a strong and powerful mind, and womanly kindness and sympathy as well. One old negro, who died some time since, so old that no one could remember him other than old, used to tell how he was brought over when young to this island, where he had lived ever since, and how he and others, sick and exhausted, were ministered to by the missis own hands, and how they always love her and always pray, Lord bless Ma'am Hannah! Every morning as she stood upon this very spot, the hands passed in review before her, each going with his driver, going to their work. She inspected them all, picking out such as were unfit for labor, and sending them to the hospital or to lighter tasks; and every night in the same spot she heard a report of the day, examined into all complaints, and with strict justice adjudged each offender's punishment; and without her order not a lash could be given.

A Great Diamond Thief.

A man living under the name of Moses died recently in Woolwich, England. He was the valet of the late Duke of Brunswick, and stole the diamonds of his master. They were very numerous and valuable, and the theft, which occurred about eight years ago, made such a noise at the time. The jewels were in an iron box, fastened with a lock very difficult to open. The box was placed in a cavity in the wall of the duke's bedroom, and the place was secured by the silken covering which decorated the entire walls of the department. The duke carried the keys of the box and the wall door perpetually in a belt, which never left his waist except during his toilet. Nevertheless, he found diamonds strewn upon his carpet, a portion of the diamonds, valued at over a million of dollars, taken from the box. Shaw had also disappeared, but was afterwards arrested in Bologna, France, and condemned to twenty years of imprisonment and hard labor at Cayenne. In three years he managed to make his escape from that, and took refuge in England, where he lived in obscurity and very privately.

The Star of London.

London covers nearly 700 square miles. It numbers more than 4,000,000 inhabitants. It comprises 100,000 foreigners from every quarter of the globe. It contains more Roman Catholics than Rome itself; more Jews than the whole of Palestine; more Irish than Dublin; more Scotch than Edinburgh; more Welshmen than Cardiff. Has a birth in it every five minutes; has seven accidents every day in its 700 miles of streets; has 123 persons every day, and 45,000 annually added to its population; has 17,000 habitual criminals on its police register; has 23,000 prostitutes; 38,000 drunkards annually brought before its magistrates.

Art Publishing.

Few people are aware of the wonderful progress that art has made in this country during the last quarter of a century. It is but a few decades since, that those who desired to beautify and adorn their homes, were obliged to depend almost entirely on foreign artists. But such a state of affairs in this age of progress and improvement could not last long with the great American people. Genius from the East to the West, from the North to the Gulf of Mexico on the south, answered the demand for beauty, taste and refinement, and to-day our leading artists are not surpassed by the leading modern masters of Art in Europe.

Great Art publishing establishments have sprung up, and by various processes the finest and most expensive paintings are reproduced in all their elegance and beauty, and at a price within the means of the masses. So that no one need be without the refining influences of beautiful pictures at home.

Among the progressive leading Art Publishing firms of the country, we take pleasure in mentioning George Stinson & Co., of Portland, Maine; they were among the first in the business, and we can only understand the colossal proportions their trade has assumed by remembering that this is a great and mighty Nation of nearly fifty million people. We cannot better illustrate the magnitude of their business than to state the amount of money paid by them for postage stamps during the year 1876; they paid for postage stamps during the year 1876, thirty-three thousand one hundred and four dollars and ninety-two cents ($33,104.92) and, in connection with this it should be remembered that only the small orders were sent by mail, the larger going by express and freight. George Stinson & Co's. agents are to be found in every State in the Union and Dominion of Canada, and in every county with scarcely an exception.

Long since, this enterprising firm recognized the value of printer's ink judiciously used in advertising, and they inform us that without it they could never have extended their business as it is today, in three times the number of years. A short time since they paid in a single day twenty-four thousand dollars ($24,000) on a contract for newspaper advertising. They evidently long since found the road to success and have neither turned to the right nor to the left. Three things are necessary for eminent success in business. First, standard honest goods that the people generally need and desire,—let them be best, whatever the line of business. Second, let your prices be reasonable—as low as possible. Third, let the people know what you have, and what you can do, by liberal and persistent advertising, and you will find low prices, made known and proved, will bring trade that will give a larger income than can be made in any other way.

Editorial.

Nothing of very great importance has occurred since our last.
Hollbrook & Fields have sold their stock of Drugs to Dr. Thomas Masie. The Doctor has had considerable experience in the drug business, and is fully competent to do the necessary mixing, weighing, pounding, mashing &c. with as great precision as any of his predecessors. We wish him success.

The Merchants are all doing good business notwithstanding the hard times.

Miss Pauline Godshaw, of Louisville, and Miss Cecilia Godshaw and sister, of Owensboro, are visiting their relative, Mrs. Schwab, of Buford. Do not fear, young Americans, they can talk to you in sweet English. They are pleasant ladies, and we wish them a pleasant time while at Buford, and the Angel of Peace to go with them when they leave our town. The farmers are all rejoicing that it has rained.

We hear there is considerable sickness in the country at this time.

As agriculture is the basis of all other business, and its prosperity is necessary to secure success to any other vocation, we close by wishing the farmers a general success this year. DAW.

Letter from No. 8.

No. 8. Outo Court, Ky., Aug. 27th, 1877.

Editor Herald:
Having seen nothing in the Herald for some time, I have come to the conclusion that "Felix," our regular correspondent, has neglected his duty, so I thought I would fill up the omission with the following:
The crops in this section have been damaged extensively by the dry weather, but, owing to the splendid rains we had last week, there will be considerable output after all, especially in tobacco.
The health of this community is very good for this season of the year.
Brother Volney Taylor and myself returned home yesterday from the convention held at Hamilton School House, where we had been as representatives from Taylor Lodge No. 8, I. O. G. T., one among the oldest Lodges in the State. We again tender our thanks to the people of Hamilton and vicinity for the kindness shown us while there.
Our esteemed friends, C. Ward and Silas Taylor are visiting relatives and friends at White Plains. We hope the "boys" will have a jolly time while there and a safe journey home.
G. C. WESTERFIELD.

Communicated.

I notice in your issue of 22nd, a communication signed "A Teacher," which I think is calculated to create a wrong impression, and in fact, to do a great deal of mischief.
There seems to be considerable misapprehension in the minds of many as to the design of an institute and the manner of conducting it.
An institute is not designed to teach arithmetic, grammar nor any other branch, but to improve those who are already sufficiently acquainted with the matter, in their manner of imparting that knowledge to others. Therefore a lecture before an institute or any other subject than "how to teach," is time misappropriated and wasted.

I approve heartily of the institute. I have never voluntarily absented myself from its meetings since its establishment in the county, and say emphatically, truthfully say that I never attended one without returning to my school strengthened, buoyed and a better teacher by reason of having attended. "A teacher" says that he is not willing that such a thing as the last institute should be imposed upon the teachers, etc. I say that of all the institutes I ever attended, I received most benefit from that same last one. I pronounce it the most practical and beneficial institute I ever attended, and thank our commissioner for procuring the services of such eminent educators as Col. Allen and Prof. Bartholomew. I was present, though "A teacher" was not. I do not regret any trouble or expense that I was at to attend it.

He calls the institute "a thing," so do I—a noble thing—a thing by which I am made a better scholar—a better teacher. "A dollar making machine"—yes, for me in the future. "A show"—it showed me how to do better work; and a teacher who does not want to do better work for the love of it, is not worthy the name.

A Bad Example.

[Frankfort Telegram.]

The boys of the country are being ruined by the mob spirit. The boy naturally follows the mob. He gets a glimpse of power and a taste of plunder. He likes to see a big fire, to hear the crack of a pistol, and to see a poor wretch swinging to a lamp post. These things are novel and exciting to him. They educate him. He sees the crowd do it, and he thinks the people do it. This is a people's government, and what the people do must be right. Hundreds of boys during the late riots took a part in the unlawful and criminal acts of the strikers. They taught the infection of the mob spirit, and were in sympathy with the very worst characters. They will remember the wild scenes at Pittsburg, Chicago, and other places, and some of these days, as veterans, they will appear to lead other riots and disorders. What a pity it is that such fearful lessons are given to the youth of the country. The impression is cherished in and never departs. Those who are mob successful are hopelessly ruined. The triumph will never be forgotten.

The Appellate Judge.

[Bowling Green Democrat.]

We take pleasure in publishing the following additional complimentary notice of our fellow citizen, Judge T. H. Hines, taken from the Glasgow Times:
"The Appellate District in which our neighboring city of Bowling Green is, in elects a Judge next year, and we notice that our friend Capt. Tom Hines is mentioned prominently in connection with the place. We have a habit of blabbing when we can't help it about matters outside our district, and the present is one of those occasions when an irrepressible desire comes up and will not down at reasonable bidding. We don't know, and care less, who are Mr. Hines's competitors, but we do know none of them will have any more brains, studiousness and eminent fitness to bring to the place than the distinguished gentleman named."

Wife, Mistress and Lady.

Who marries for love, takes a wife who marries for fortune, takes a mistress; who marries for position, takes a lady. You are loved by your wife, regarded by your mistress and tolerated by your lady. You have a wife for yourself, a mistress for your house and friends, a lady for the world and society. Your wife will agree with you, your mistress will rule, your lady manage you. Your wife will take care of your household, your mistress of your house, your lady of your appearance. If you are sick your wife will nurse you, your mistress will visit you, your lady will inquire after your health. You take a walk with your wife, a ride with your mistress, and go to a party with your lady. Your wife will share your grief, your mistress your money, and your lady your debts. If you die, your wife will weep, your mistress will lament, and your lady will wear mourning. Which will you have.

"Bank Closed."

[Detroit Free Press.]

At eleven o'clock yesterday forenoon a man walked up and down Griswold street for a few minutes, carefully scrutinizing the exterior of several banks, and finally entered one of them and deposited thirteen dollars. It was his very first dealing with a bank, and he had stashed over a trifle more than usual when he came out. About a quarter after twelve, finding that he could deposit two or three dollars more and still make his purchases, the man came down town again. The bank was closed, according to custom and the usual sign of "Bank shut" hung against the glass. "The former pushed on the door he saw the sign, and he was only about ten seconds growing as pale as death. As he made another attempt to open the door a boy came along and called out:

"You can't get in there—she's shut up!"
"Took my thirteen dollars and then he looked at me and looked at the sign." "She'll open again at 2 o'clock," said the boy as he passed along.
"I don't it—I don't it!" muttered the man as he wiped off the perspiration, "but I'll wait and see."

He sat down on the steps, weak, knees and chin trembling, and he didn't move an inch till 2 o'clock. When the bank opened he walked in, presented his certificate of deposit and said:

"I'll be a thousand times obliged if you'll let me draw out my thirteen dollars."

It was handed out and the man braced up instantaneously. Counting the money over twice, he put the bills in his wallet, walked out, and as he reached the walk he said:

"That's the closest escape I ever had in my life, and I won't make a fool of myself again!"

Bradley's Extraordinary Vote.

[Albany Argus.]

The exposure by the New York Sun of the way in which Bradley the unjust Judge, turned from right to wrong between dusk and dawn, on coming the vote of Florida, has only confirmed in the people's mind what every body believed before. No one has thought for a moment that the famous—or infamous—eight decided honestly in behalf of Hayes. The pretence that there was even a semblance of right to his claim is preposterous. The corrupt carpet-baggers at the South, the unscrupulous leaders who had managed the Republican campaign, the desperate railroad and subsidy jobbers who infest Washington, combined to keep Mr. Tilden out of the office to which he was rightfully entitled; and to do this, after the preparation of crime upon crime, they obtained Bradley's vote by the most extraordinary means. Bradley is the Judge who astonished Chief Justice Chase by turning the property of the Memphis and his record altogether is so odious as to corroborate the statement that these jobbers thronged the house until they induced a change of an opinion written in behalf of Tilden to one for Hayes.

There must have been some reason.

There must have been some reason for the exposure of the corrupt career of Bradley. Was it only the fear of Tilden? Did they simply count upon the negative favor of Hayes, or did they expect him not only to prosecute them but entirely to favor new schemes of robbery? At least, they have escaped the scratches expenses which would have followed Tilden's inauguration. What the future will secure for them remains to be seen.

The Georgia Constitutional Convention.

has completed its labors and adjourned. The people vote on the adoption or rejection of the new constitution on December 12th. The important changes which have made are the abolition of the whipping post and imprisonment for debt. Liberal provision is made for the education of both white and black. A strict registration is provided for, and all taxes must be paid before the parties are entitled to vote. This provision differs from the one which we have in our city charter, where only the payment of the poll tax is required before the citizen can vote. A wholesale reduction in salaries is made as follows: Governor $5,000, Supreme Judges $2,500, Attorney General, Treasurer, Secretary of State, $2,000 each and no perquisites per diem to members of the Legislature, $1, instead of $7, as formerly. The changes that have been made in salaries will make an annual saving to the State of $282,000. Many State officials heretofore appointed by the Governor or elected by the Legislature, will in future be elected by the people.

One very important provision, but one that will cause violent opposition from the entire railroad interest of the State, is the prohibition of perpetual charters conferring special immunities on corporations, and the right is reserved for the Legislature to regulate the freight and passenger traffic on the railroads of the State. These tariffs must be uniform according to distance.

Lobbying is made a crime, and all lobby contracts are declared void. Exemption under the homestead laws is increased to $2,500.—Lexington Press

WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 5, 1877.

Miss Maggie King returned from a visit to South Carolina last Monday.

Willie Lewis is occupying a position behind the counters of Baer Brothers & Co.

Little Ernest Tracy was killed by a snipe yesterday morning. Not seriously hurt, though.

Rev. W. P. Bennett held regular services at this place Sunday night and Sunday morning.

There will be church conference at the Methodist church, to-night. Everybody is invited to attend.

Miss Mary Taylor left for Shelbyville last week, where she will attend school for the next ten months.

Misses Carrie Gibson and Ella Willis returned Saturday last from a two week's visit to Central, Ky.

Mr. Samuel Jones, of Corvado, made a pleasure visit to this place Friday last, returning home Saturday.

The thanks of the Herald office is due Messrs. Wm. Phillips and Armstrong Jones for treats to the watermelon.

If you want fresh, pure drugs, buy of W. H. Murrell, Beaver Dam, and don't throw your money away on refused goods.

The "Tamborina" is a favorite cigar. Mr. Z. Wayne Griffin will accept our thanks for the pleasure of "trying one."

If you want to be cured of the fever, ague and chills, go to W. H. Murrell, Beaver Dam, and buy a bottle of Malaria-tion for 75 cts.

Our "devil" says he wishes he was a great big devil, so he could scare hold of some pretty young lady and shake her out in her shoes.

An exchange says: "A female is a lass until she reaches the age of fourteen." "This accounts for the immense quantity of 'lasses' in the land."

Rev. James Barrett will preach at the Methodist church in Hartford next Sabbath at eleven o'clock. A. M. Subject: "Resurrection of the Dead."

Mr. James N. Patterson, representing the Hubler-Stump house of J. F. W. Dorman, Baltimore, has been in town for several days past taking orders.

Mr. Eugene Hall, formerly of this place, now of Utica, Indiana, accompanied by his wife, was visiting his mother, Mrs. Emily Hall, last week.

Cyrus Gates, Esq., the popular and gentlemanly representative of the wholesale hat house of Bristow & Co., Louisville, was in town last week.

Dick Rosenberg will arrive in a day or so with his immense stock of clothing. If you need anything in this line Dick will trim you out in first-class style cheap.

The merry peal of the school bells last Monday morning, suggested to the small boy that vacation was over and that he must take up his line of march in that direction.

Mrs. M. C. Daniel, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. E. L. Wise, honored us with a visit last Monday evening. Mrs. Daniel added her name to our subscription roll. Thanks.

I have this day received from Cincinnati, a sack of Java, 2 of La Guayra, and 1 of extra quality of Rio Coffee, and will sell low for cash.

E. T. W. Williams.

Mr. H. B. Kinolovig, the gentlemanly clerk at W. C. Morton's, will please accept our thanks for "setting up" the "Blue-eyed Belle," the best cigar, according to our Havana tip, in town.

The proudest person we have seen for some time past, is a Hartford youth. He's just turned "ten out," and they're more of a Western town than a mountaineer, "extensively laid out," but, chiefly settled.

Misses Mattie and Marion Harrison, who have been sojourning in our rural hamlet for two months past, visiting their uncle, H. D. Taylor, returned to their home in Shelbyville, last Wednesday evening.

Mr. George Klein, of this place, has a row of beets that are hard to beat. They were raised without any cultivation, and the majority of them will measure twenty-four inches or more around, besides being of unusual length.

The Fair Grounds at this place, are being rapidly repaired. The company are adding a speed ring to the grounds, which will be quite an attraction. The Fair will commence the 23rd of October and continue five days. The premium list and posters will be out in a few days.

Mr. H. P. Brooke, general agent for the Roebuck nursery, Nashville, Tenn., is in town, the guest of the Hartford House. Mr. Brooke has six gentlemen with him who are canvassing the county and taking orders for all kinds of fruit trees. Those favoring them with their orders may rely upon their ability and promptness to fill them.

Among the many remarkable curiosities of the past interred in this county, the most interesting, perhaps, was brought to this office last Monday by Mr. John K. Oglesby. It is evidently an Indian pipe, of peculiar shape, tinned at a dark red stone almost as hard as flint, and in a perfect state of preservation. The bowl of the pipe is about six inches in length by one in breadth and at a wedge-like shape. The hole intended for the stem is in the center of a circle 2 1/2 inches in diameter. At the lower edge of the bowl, and extending down the bowl proper, is a fan-like appendage intended, no doubt, for ornament. The lower end of the bowl is pierced by a hole, intended no doubt to snug the pipe by a cord from the neck. The pipe has a handsome appearance, and is an evidence of the remarkable skill evinced in the many relics of a past people, who, at some period, inhabited the continent. This pipe is on exhibition at this office. Call and see it.

Prof. Rowden, of Jeffersonville, Ind., arrived today and will proceed immediately to reorganize the Hartford Cornet Band, and put them in tip-top trim for the approaching fair. Three new additions have been made to the band since its dissolution last fall. Messrs. Clarence Hardwick, W. A. Gibson and Harry Jarboe, each of whom have a good score of musical talent. The following gentlemen compose the band under its present organization: Wm. Rowden, Clarence Hardwick, Jerry Williams, Harry Jarboe, L. E. Condit, E. P. Thomas, W. A. Gibson, Wm. Phillips, J. R. Collins, A. D. White and E. T. Williams.

Wald Daniel was up before his honor, F. P. Morgan, Police Judge, one day last week, for a breach of the peace, by assaulting one Warren Stevens. The jury, after hearing all the evidence in the case, came to the conclusion that Wald should pay the Commonwealth the sum of $10 and that he should bond at the public hotel for thirty days. This seems pretty hard for a little knock-down, but when we consider that peaceable citizens are summoned from their avocations as jurors and witnesses day after day to try such cases, we think nothing short of the extent of the law will stop such proceedings.

Prot. W. L. Hawkins, who has been engaged to teach at this place, began his school last Monday morning. The Professor has had great experience in the training of children, and by his mode of teaching and conducting his schools, has become very popular as an educator. He is assisted by Miss Pradie Baird of this place, who has also considerable knowledge and experience as a teacher. Read his advertisement in this issue.

Masters Harry Taylor, Charlie and Neil Pennington and Willie Maxwell, of this place, leave today for Russellville, to attend Bethel College. While we do not like to see the children of our town go to other towns and cities to be educated, but when such is the case, we know of no school that we had rather see them attend than the one above mentioned.

Hartford possesses an individual who most certainly "lives to eat." He's the champion of the Green river country in devouring watermelons, and thinks nothing of sending a twenty-five pounder to its long home, without even straightening up to belch. He says he can go 'em all backwater puddles in his eyes when they lose their taste.

Mr. William Edwards, of Melleny, Ky., while trying to jump on the West end bound freight train Monday evening, fell and very badly. Drs. J. E. Pendleton and J. W. Haden extracted all the bones of three small toes and four pieces of his ankle bone. His whole foot may yet have to be taken off.

Mr. S. Schneider, of the firm of Baer Brothers & Co., this place, left yesterday for the East, where he will purchase a large supply of fall and winter clothing, dry goods, boots, shoes, hats, etc., which added to their already large and elegant stock, will make the same complete.

Quite a spirit of improvement seems to have taken hold of our citizens, in the way of repairing and repainting their houses. Among the number this week we mention those of Mr. Z. Wayne Griffin and Messrs. L. Rosenberg & Bro. Both of whom have had the trunks of their business houses newly painted.

You who lead a solitary life—Pratt, Tailors, Shoemakers, &c., will find a great relief for the competition from which you so often suffer, by taking Simmons' Liver Regulator. It is a simple, harmless, vegetable compound, sure to relieve, and can do no injury.

Col. O. P. Johnson and son, Johnny, of Owensboro, were in town Monday and yesterday, and were registered at the popular Lyon House. The Colonel pays a very high compliment to the Herald by pronouncing it the best county paper in the State.

Mr. E. Small and wife, of this place, left for Louisville last Monday evening to be present at the opening of the Exposition. Mr. Small, while absent, will purchase a large stock of goods for his fall trade.

Our readers will find in this issue a statement from Col. O. P. Johnson, Collector of this district, giving the total debit and credit of his office. If you will read the statement you will find exactly how things stand in this district.

"All the health I enjoy, and even my life I may say, is in consequence of Simmons' Liver Regulator. I would not take one million dollars for my interest in that medicine."

"W. H. Wilson, Welborn, Fla."

We know everybody will be disappointed on seeing the announcement that we won't attend the Exposition, but then it's a long distance, and we're not good on walking ties and rails, hence we'll have to abandon the idea of going.

Everybody that wants a No. 1 cigar must go to J. F. Collins' hereafter. It beats the Leader.

Robbery in Calhoun. On last Saturday night week, the store of C. P. Johnson, in Calhoun, was entered by a black window and robbed of about $10 in cash. A boy was arrested on Monday following under suspicion, and having been seen with too much money for a youth of his age, being twelve years old. All persons interested in BUSINESS EDUCATION should examine into the merits of the EVANSVILLE COMMERCIAL COLLEGE, located on the corner of 3rd and Main Streets, Evansville, Indiana. This is not a college of a "double" reputation, but has been in successful operation for twenty-six years, and today it stands as the LEADING BUSINESS COLLEGE of the United States. Everybody is invited to call at the College and examine the mode of instruction, and the thorough and Practical Course of study the students receive. It is the only College in the West that is conducted on the ACTUAL BUSINESS PLAN. The patronage of young men and ladies wishing to obtain an education in a short time at a small expense is respectfully solicited. Time to complete the entire course is from three to four months.

OUR TELEGRAPH INSTITUTE

Is the most complete institution of the kind in the country; it is first class in all its appointments; it is fitted up in the most thorough manner; its instructions are practical; it has more instruments than any telegraph office in the West; its pupils receive the same practice as if in a regular telegraph office; its graduates are competent operators. An eight page College Journal, giving general information in regard to terms and tuition, course of instruction, etc., will be sent free on application.

SAVE YOUR EYES.

OUR PEBBLE SPECTACLES

And Eye Glasses are the best for failing sight. Cut and polished from the "Real Stone" they are perfectly transparent (will cut glass like a diamond). Being harder than the glass, they receive a finer polish and always retain it. One pair carefully suited to your eyes will last as long as five pairs of the best glass, besides preserving the sight almost unimpaired all that time. By our new system for testing the sight, we are enabled to suit any eye so accurately that no injurious effects will follow. We repair Spectacles and Eye Glasses, and insert Pebbles or the best Glass Lenses in old frames. Our Bi-Focal Spectacles are for old people who require spectacles to see far as well as near by one pair being required. To persons who cannot call on us we send our new Illustrated Price List which shows how to order.

GIVEN AWAY

To all persons who have Chills and fail to be cured. It is not often during these hard times that we ever hear of anything being given away; but in the present case we have an article that will bear the most searching and accurate test in every sense of the word, and feel determined to place it before the public in such a manner that there cannot be a "don'ting" of it.

To day all who may be afflicted with any form of Ague, or Chills and Fever, we make the proposition

To All Persons

To cure you with one bottle of Day's Ague Tonic.

It never produces partial deafness, dimness of vision, buzzing or roaring in the head, or any of those unpleasant symptoms that follow the use of Quinine, it does not contain arsenic, strychnine or any other poison; it acts freely upon the liver and bowels without the use of nauseating pills; it can be given to those whose stomach reject Quinine, and the cures are prompt, effectual and permanent.

Procure from any Druggist or Merchant, one bottle of Day's Ague Tonic, use it as directed, and if it fails, return the empty bottle, and the money will be refunded to all.

Who Have Chills.
